I recently had the pleasure of working with Denis Benyaminov and his team on a highly challenging project at Latook Software, where we developed a solution for a video editing web application. Denis was instrumental in driving the technical direction of the project, suggesting better solutions, and assembling a team on his side that successfully completed the task.

Denis's extensive knowledge of system architecture and web application development, along with his ability to lead teams under tight deadlines, ensured the project was delivered successfully with minimal friction. His experience in working with remote and distributed teams was critical in overcoming both technical and organisational obstacles, making his contributions invaluable.

Working with Denis was an enriching experience. He consistently brought his expertise and deep understanding of web solutions to the table, and his ability to integrate complex technologies into functional, high-quality products is exceptional.

I highly recommend Denis for any technical leadership position, as he is a great leader with a strong engineering background.

Please feel free to reach out to me for more information. Sincerely,
George Ostrobrod
CTO, Latook Software
